DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The lengthy specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Objections

Claims 1 and 4 are objected to because of the following informalities: In claim 1, line 8, change "circuit" to --circuit-- and "peak currents" to --the peak current--. In claim 4, line 2, change "the current drive circuit" --current drive circuits--. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Maede et al., Patent No. 7,129,916.

The applied reference has a common invention with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Maede discloses in Fig.1 an organic EL display device comprising an organic EL drive circuit (10) (see title and Col.10, lines 17-18) including a current drive circuit (1-7), which generates via pulse generator circuit (6) PWM pulse having pulse width (T) corresponding to display data DAT corresponding to luminance of organic EL elements (11) and outputs a drive current (I) for driving the organic EL elements for a time period corresponding to the width of the PWM pulse, comprising a peak current generator circuit (4) for generating a peak current (IP) on the drive current, wherein the current drive circuit (1-7) is provided for each of output pins (9) connected to the respective organic EL elements (11) and the peak current generator circuit (4) generates a peak current (IP) larger than the drive current (I) corresponding to the display data (see Col.4, lines 32-34 and also lines 55-58) when a value of the display data DAT corresponding to the pulse width is a predetermined value (see Col.8, lines 62-64), wherein the peak current (IP) initially charges the organic EL elements (see Col.6, lines 55-57).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3-8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Kitahara, Patent No. 7,292,234.
